

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY

Tucker Ellis & West's interdisciplinary team of attorneys partners with manufacturers, private labelers, distributors, and retailers of consumer products to address a wide range of consumer product safety issues. We draw upon our extensive experience in consumer product safety, including:

- representing manufacturers and distributors in product recalls
- advising manufacturers on advertising literature, operating manuals, and product warnings
- counseling manufacturers on the introduction and sale of products to the public
- coordinating litigation and multi-district discovery on a national basis
- selection of technical experts and coordination of scientific studies for use in the defense of product liability actions on a national basis
- counseling manufacturers on insurance coverage issues
- aiding manufacturers in the protection of product patents and trademarks

Our team helps our clients navigate the numerous legal and business implications created by ever-increasing consumer product safety regulations in the United States and throughout the world.
