eDiscovery: 2019 Year in Review

FEBRUARY 2020

2019 was a consequential year for eDiscovery developments. Courts throughout the country, both at the state and federal level, analyzed and decided important legal issues that will continue to impact discovery and production for years to come. These cases involve a wide array of topics, from preserving text messages, to carefully crafting objections, to the always-important issue of discovery on discovery. The Tucker Ellis eDiscovery Group has compiled a list of significant and representative eDiscovery cases from 2019 to provide insight and guidance as we study these new developments.
