Elisabeth Arko focuses her practice on product liability defense.

She represents mid-size to large companies in complex civil litigation in products liability, toxic tort, and medical malpractice.

Before pursuing a career in law, Elisabeth worked in local politics and as a community and media relations representative for the United States House of Representatives. Through these experiences, Elisabeth learned to effectively communicate difficult topics in a concise and succinct way and to articulate and successfully advocate a position on behalf of clients.

While in undergrad, Elisabeth was a member of the Ashland University Women's Golf Team. She helped take the team to a 9th place finish nationally and was second-team all-GLIAC her senior year. Elisabeth is still an avid golfer with a 7 handicap and welcomes any opportunity to play the links.
