services

Intellectual Property
Patent Procurement

Nathan Lovette is a registered patent agent in the Tucker Ellis Intellectual Property Department.

Nate assists in all aspects of intellectual property, including the prosecution of utility and design patent applications, trademark registrations, and copyright registrations. He uses his technical background and expertise to help research current technologies and prior art for use in prosecuting patent applications and performing freedom to operate evaluations.

Before joining Tucker Ellis, Nate worked for four years in the industrial automation industry at a mid-sized control systems integration company in the Cleveland area. As an electrical engineer, he was responsible for working with and managing a team of engineers to create technical specifications, design, test, and commission high-performance control systems for a wide variety of customer industries.

In his free time, Nate enjoys running, snowboarding, and spending time outdoors.
