Connor Doughty represents clients in complex civil litigation, with an emphasis on pharmaceutical and medical device clients in product liability litigation.

Connor supports several Tucker Ellis life sciences litigation teams in matters across state and federal courts and in multidistrict litigation. He is experienced in various facets of pre-trial litigation, including strategic legal research and analysis, discovery and e-discovery, motion briefing, and witness depositions.

In addition to his work in life sciences litigation, Connor is part of a Tucker Ellis team of attorneys that serves as national counsel in products liability litigation for a Fortune 500 company. Connor also has experience defending various corporations in employment practices litigation and lawsuits under the Illinois Biometric Information Privacy Act (BIPA).

Away from work, Connor enjoys cooking his way through his latest cookbook, catching Cubs games at Wrigley Field, and exploring his Chicago neighborhood with his dog Ollie.
